

Abstract

A method and system for administering exam content is provided. A server adapted to receive requests from an exam provider to register at least one exam with the server registers the exams and displays the exams for students. The student's answers to at least one exam question are recorded at the server where they are graded and placed in a transcript which may be viewed by third parties having access to the server.